Safer Together – moving forward

Following a very successful event held in Cardiff, last November, the National Association for Safety and Health in Care Services (NASHiCS) will host another in our series of Capital Events, this time, in Edinburgh.

This will be the first major event in Scotland for NASHiCS and where better than the vibrant and historic city of Edinburgh in early spring as the perfect setting for an interesting and informative day.

The venue will be at the COSLA conference centre on Tuesday 3rd April 2012.

This is a 'must attend' event for anyone with a responsibility for health and safety in the care sector. If you are an owner, manager, director or health and safety advisor for care services then this event is for you.

The event will include presentations from the Health and Safety Executive (HSE), the Care Inspectorate, Scottish Government and Fire & Rescue Services.

The HSE and Care Inspectorate's joint protocol on health and safety inspections will be launched as well as discussion on the memorandum of understanding between the Care Inspectorate and the Fire & Rescue Services.

The event will be chaired by Dr Karen McDonnell, IOSH Vice President and Head of ROSPA Scotland.
